

Yucky bugs or nasty chemical sprays in your home?

Why it's a choice you no longer have to make.

Bugs invade homes from the outside. Many pest control companies still try to solve the problem by spraying chemicals in your home, creating twice the contamination.

Truly Nolen has developed a unique three zone protection system that attacks the problem at the source, the outside nesting and harborage sites. By seeking out the bugs nesting areas and eliminating them, bug populations shrink dramatically. This, combined with caulking and sealing cracks and entry points, greatly diminishes the bug's capacity to invade the interior of your home. In so doing, this family friendly process lessens the need for interior applications of pesticides. In fact, a minute amount of borate dust and attractant baits, measured in grams, is usually sufficient for interior protection.

Don't be fooled! Not all pest control companies are alike. Log onto our site or call to order our free video entitled "Don't get contaminated twice, the 5 critical things every homeowner should know before hiring a pest control company".
